Defeat Depression

Across Canada, mental health organizations, schools, community groups, caring companies and concerned volunteers are planning walks, runs, rides and other physical and social activities to raise funds for mental health initiatives.

Depression and other mood disorders affect millions of Canadians, striking all socioeconomic, educational, and cultural backgrounds. Physical activity such as walking and running, along with social interactions, can have a positive effect on mental well-being, and opening a dialogue about mental illness can help break down the barrier of stigma.

Funds raised go to participating organizations that provide much needed local community mental health support and services.

Many organizations are struggling to try to keep up with the increased demand for mental health services. Defeat Depression events raise funds to assist organizations deliver critical mental health services and supports within their local communities – helping to improve the lives of Canadians that are affected by depression and other mood disorders.

Growing Our Campaign Across Canada

2012 Hundreds of Canadians from coast to coast took part in the inaugural Defeat Depression campaign events throughout 23 cities and towns.

2013 The campaign saw local organizations raise upwards of $70,000 in donations with participation of more than 1,500 people who attended or volunteered in 26 community events.

2014 The spring campaign grew to 52 event locations, engaged 12,270 participants, and fundraised more than $100,000 in support of local community mental health services - with more events scheduled for the fall.

2015 The campaign exploded to over 85 locations. Well over $200,000 was raised locally across the country, by more than 20,000 thousand Canadians, to support local mental health services.

2016 The campaign continued to expand bringing the total number of events to 92. Our fall campaign welcomed new sites and raised much needed funds across the country to support local mental health services. Our brand exposure continues to grow over 3 million people.

Did You Know?

Around 20% of Canadians (1 in 5) will experience a mental health issue or problem each year.

Between 4-5% of Canadians are depressed at any one point in time – that's roughly 1.5 million people.

Why Get Involved?

Mental illness impacts virtually every Canadian family, millions of individuals and strikes all socioeconomic, educational, and cultural backgrounds. Of those who develop depression or anxiety, only about 20% will receive adequate treatment. Astonishingly, 97% of people reporting their conditions also report that their work, home life and relationships have suffered as a result of their illness or those of a family member. Around 91% of Canadians with children say that their depression often or sometimes interferes with family life and 47% say that their depression interferes with their relationship with their spouse or partner.

Depression is a common mental disorder, characterized by sadness, loss of interest or pleasure, feelings of guilt or low self-worth, disturbed sleep or appetite, low energy and poor concentration. These problems can become chronic or recurrent, substantially impair and individuals’ ability to cope with daily life. At its most severe, depression can lead to suicide.

There are approximately 4,000 suicides in Canada every year – 11 people each day. Suicide accounts for 24% of all deaths among Canadians aged 15 to 24 and 16% of all deaths for the age group 25 to 44. These startling facts are why this campaign is so important and why so many Canadians join Defeat Depression events or volunteer to organize an event in their communities.

Removing Stigma around Mental Illness

The World Health Organization has predicted that depression will become the second leading cause of disability in the world (next to heart disease) by the year 2020. Currently, it is the fourth leading cause of disability and premature death in the world and the leading cause of total years lived with a disability.

Stigma is a major barrier preventing people from seeking help. Many people living with a mental illness say the stigma they face is often worse than the illness itself. Defeat Depression strives to target stigma. Our staff and volunteers are diligently working to educate Canadians about mental illness and encourage open dialogue about depression and other mood disorders. Mental illness is no different than having a physical disease. Both can have serious effects on daily living and overall health.

Physical activities like walking and running, along with social interaction, have a demonstrated positive effect on mental health. Defeat Depression events are the perfect way for family, friends, co-workers and neighbours to join together and support positive mental health!

Brampton Walk to Defeat Depression, Fall 2016

"I think Defeat Depression is such an important campaign.

Depression is one of the most common of all mental health concerns and I don't know anyone who hasn't in some way been touched by it. The campaign also brings attention to mental health in general. When I was viewing all the pictures from across Canada of Defeat Depression events, I felt a sense of pride knowing my area was a small part of this national movement".

- S.M.O. Belleville Event Organizer

Engaging Communities

The Defeat Depression campaign is successful because it encompasses friends, families, co-workers, neighbours, and caring organizations. It engages communities at the local level and builds relationships. Events are scheduled throughout the year. The local host determines the best time and activity for their community. It provides a fun, effective way for people to come together to support each other, foster understanding, provide encouragement, and create HOPE.

Canal Pursuit for Mental Health 2016,
Clay Williams

“The Defeat Depression Campaign has been a life saver for our Mental Health/Depression Support Group. Depression is being talked about, stigma is being reduced, participants and donors are showing those who live with depression that others care about them, and this group is able to keep meeting – literally saving lives.”

- O.O. Annapolis County

“On behalf of our board, our staff, our volunteers, and most importantly our families, thank you all, because it is this type of support that is huge for us as an organization.”

- J.T. Collingwood

“This is the BIG issue for me. Just by talking about it, being public, educating, not being shy or feeling ashamed, is helping. One of the people who joined the organizing committee is living with managed mental illness and she has taught us a lot about the stigma (and self-stigma) of living with mental illness. We are reaching out and will continue to get the message out.”

About Mood Disorders Society of Canada

Mood Disorders Society of Canada (MDSC) is a national health charity committed to ensuring the voices of people with mental illness, family members and caregivers are heard on issues relating to mental illness and mental health; particularly with regard to PTSD, anxiety, depression, bipolar disorder and other associated mood disorders. Founded in 2001, MDSC strives to provide people with mood disorders a strong, cohesive vision to improve access to treatment, inform research, influence program development and government policies, and enrich quality of life for people affected by mood disorders.

MDSC manages the Defeat Depression Campaign in collaboration with many local mental health service providers and volunteers who host events in their communities.
